HE sets plan to implement Walker budget

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — The Board of Higher Education Tuesday adopted an allocation plan to implement Gov. Daniel Walker's budget for public colleges and universities in fiscal 1977.

However, the board also adopted unanimously a resolution reaffirming its own budget recommendations which Walker pared by over $56 million.

The resolution commits the board to "vigorously defend their original budget recommendations at meetings of the General Assembly and public hearings."

Walker, as part of a general economy move, allocated $530 million in operating funds for higher education and $39.5 million for capital improvements.

The IBHE had recommended $558 million and $97.9 million, respectively.

The breakdown of the IBHE allocation plan, which will be forwarded to Walker, include Chicago State $13.8 million versus $14.6 recommended by the IBHE; Eastern Illinois $19 million versus $20.1 million; Governor's State $10 million, $11.3 million; Northeastern Illinois $15.5 million, $16.7 million; Western Illinois $27.5 million, $29.9 million; Illinois

State $38.0 million, $40.2 million.

Illinois $47.3 million, $49.7 million; Sangamon State $10.1 million, $10.8 million; Southern Illinois at Carbondale $68.6 million, $72.3 million; University of Illinois-Chicago $46.3 million, $47.9 million; UI Medical Center $63.3 million, $65.4 million; UI-Urbana $124.4 million, $127.8 million.

The governor's budget would allow a 2.5 per cent increase in university employee's salaries, compared with the 7 per cent pay hikes the IBHE had recommended.

Only 15 show up to quiz student leaders

Paul Miller

News Government Editor

The top four student government executive officers fielded questions today in a sparsely attended open forum, designed to be an accountability session for student government.

Student Body President Mick Chizmar, Executive Vice President Randy Kob, Financial Vice President Chuck Scaggs and Studnet Senate Speaker Scaggs answered questions from approximately 15 students most of whom were student senators.

Chizmar said AISG's main goal is to reduce the one-third educational cost borne by the students.

Chizmar added that Eastern should see an increase in state funding due to increasing enrollment, compared to decreasing enrollments of other state schools.

On other issues, Scaggs said the senate was continuing its fight against the possible firing of Ron Wohlstein, of the anthropology-sociology department.

"I've been assured that things look favorable for Wohlstein right now," Scaggs said.

All of the officers involved said after the forum they were disappointed in the low student turn-out.

"I thought the questions that were asked were very good," Chizmar said.

Kob termed the turnout "pitiful," adding he expected more intense and in depth questions from the students who attended.

Scaggs said that although the turnout was disappointing, the forum provided access to student government for the

All of the officers questioned said they would be in favor of a monthly accountability session open to students.

The recent theft of the Eastern News by a group of students, allegedly out of frustration with a News article concerning drinking in the student government offices. Scaggs said the matter was a "joke where no one was hurt."

"If there's been some harm done, I think a public apology is called for, but otherwise, I think the matter should be dropped," Scaggs said.

Chizmar said an apology should be an individual decision, depending on if the students involved felt it was a joke or a planned theft.

Chizmar also said that drinking in the student government offices would be stopped.

"It's been going on for years and years in the past administrations, and we haven't been doing more than was done in the past," Chizmar said.

Scaggs also said he had "never done anything in his office that other university officials had not done in theirs."

Scaggs added, however, that "two wrongs did not make a right" concerning the drinking.

In answer to questioning concerning the Senate's proposed 38 per cent budget increase, Scaggs said that increased activity by student government had, in turn, resulted in increased costs.

Scaggs listed increased membership in the Association of Student Governments (AISG), increases in telephone costs, and heightened travel by student government had led to the budget request.

Chizmar said that student government in the past had asked for large budget increases as compared to other activities.

On other issues, Kob said action would begin in the future to improve teacher evaluation by involving more faculty, and increasing core questions.

Expert gives helpful hints on how to say no to rapists

Debbie Brown

News staff writer

Derrick Storaska said he once witnessed the gang rape of an 11-year old during his senior year of college.

The experience shook him up so much, he began doing research on rape and became one of the leading researchers of the subject.

Storaska said, during his speech Monday in the Union Ballroom that he has been coming from university to university that timespeaking on "How To Say No To A Rapist and Survive."

During his unusually humorous speech, Storaska told a very active crowd of 300 people, mostly female, that the key to rape prevention is to try and physically overpower the rapist, and to use violence.

Storaska began by saying that "nobody gets credit for having sense any more." He said that people are taught "things" about rape.

They think the rapist is a big, ugly, martian-boking thing that will come out of the bushes at you, when in fact the rapist might just be the best damned thing you ever laid eyes in the groin, screaming or struggling.

"People are given the wrong idea of rape," Storaska said. "For some reason or other, the experts tell you to scream and struggle to prove that you have no wish to be raped."

"That is what the rapist expects," Storaska said. "What the rapist doesn't expect is for the victim to take the time out to talk to him, treat him as if she thinks he is a human being, too."

"As for screaming, about 50 to 55 per cent of the time, it will work, but the other 45 or 50 percent, the victim is badly beaten or even killed," Storaska said.

"Once a woman stood up at one of my lectures," Storaska said, "and said to me: 'If you don't scream and struggle, there'll be no case.' I'm interested in getting you home safely, not in creating a good case," Storaska said.

Storaska said that 70 per cent of all women raped are molested by someone they know such as boyfriends, husbands and uncles. Only 30 per cent of all rape cases are committed by strangers.

Storaska said that there is no reason a man should feel he has the right to "take advantage of" a woman.

"Many times a rapist will claim that the victim 'deserved to be raped' or 'was just asking for it by the way she dresses and acts' which just isn't true," Storaska said.

"With some men, if you crawl across campus in a cardboard box, you're 'asking for it.'"

"The martial arts are the best forms of self protection against rape, but they are also unrealistic because nobody ever has the time to study them," Storaska said.

Sun-in

Students not fortunate enough to have been able to get a head start on their tans in Florida over spring break had a chance to catch up Tuesday as Eastern's sunny weather continued. The campus pond had its share of sun seekers, some of whom took the chance to catch up on some studying.

Mostly sunny

Tuesday will be mostly sunny with highs from 65 to 70. That night will be mostly cloudy with a chance of showers later and lows in the 40s or middle 40s.

Faculty Senate discusses guidelines for collective bargaining

The faculty senate discussed Tuesday the proposed guidelines for collective bargaining, under which, one faculty member claimed, faculty "has no rights... other than what the Board of Governors (BOG) wants to give."

Pat Lenihan, of the Economics Department, told the senate "under these guidelines all the power belongs to the BOG. These guidelines put the faculty in the same position the industrial employees were in in 1932."

"The important thing is to get collective bargaining passed, elect an agent, and get to the negotiating table," Lenihan said.

The senate also objected to the voting policy of the guidelines. Under the guidelines, the majority of the eligible voters must vote in favor of collective bargaining before it can be accepted.

The majority of votes cast could be in favor of collective bargaining but unless it is the majority of all eligible voters collective bargaining would not be accepted.

"This goes against all senate principles"

Dalias Price, senate member, said.

Price also said that there had been an attempt to scare the faculty into thinking that if collective bargaining did go into effect the Faculty Senate and University Personnel Committee would be abolished.

"This simply isn't true," Price said.

"Faculty Senate even after collective bargaining comes in will be an elected body," Terry Weidner, senate chairperson, said.

Weidner also said "it should be made clear to the voting faculty that abstention is a no vote. If collective bargaining is desired the voters must make the ballot yes."

Evaluation forum set Wednesday

An open forum will be sponsored by the Student Senate Wednesday to gather student input on ways to change teacher evaluation, Joyce Lieberman, Senate Public Relations co-chairperson, said Monday.

The forum will be held at 7 p.m. in the Union addition Oakland Room, and is open to all interested students, Lieberman said.

The forum will be conducted by Executive Vice President Randy Kob and Senate Academic Affairs chairperson Judy Hemlinger.

The senate recently passed a resolution which stated that unless "drastic changes" are made in the current system of evaluation, the senate will cut its funding.

AB to continue talks on activity requests

The Apportionment Board (AB) will continue discussion on next year's budget requests from 5 student activities ex officio member Bill Clark said Tuesday.

The AB will meet at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Government Conference Room.

Budgets to be considered are the Eastern News, campus radio station WELH, University Board (UB), Health Service, and the Student Senate. The News is requesting a total of $26,000 in student fees, WELH, $8,288; UB, $43,710; Health Service, $46,700; and senate $13,190.95.

UN allocation incorrect

In Tuesday's edition of the Eastern News, it was incorrectly reported that the Model United Nations (U.N.) was allocated $18,025 in student fee money by the Apportionment Board (AB). The figure should have read $1,825.

News, Government leaders to debate on 'Action Line'

WELH's "Action Line" program plans to feature a debate between student leaders of the Eastern News and student government at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

A spokesperson for the campus radio station said News Editor-in-Chief Jim Lynch, City Editor Mark Wisser, Student Body President Mick Chizmar and Student Senate Speaker Bill Scaggs have been invited to appear on the program to "discuss the controversy between the Eastern News and the Student Senate."

Chizmar's availability to be on the show is questionable, the spokesperson said, because he has indicated he may be out of town at the time.

Plans for the show include a half-hour of taped interviews with Lynch, Wisser and Scaggs followed by "debate" among the participants about recent friction between the two student organizations, the spokesperson said.

Controversy between the two groups came to a head Thursday when all campus-distributed copies of the News were stolen and later returned by persons reportedly upset over an opinion column criticizing drinking in the student government office complex.

The column was written by Wisser about a party apparently being held to celebrate Scaggs' birthday. Wisser is also former president of the student body.

Buck to receive King scholarship

Barbara Ann Buck, Junior Zoology major from Chicago, has been awarded the 1976 Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship by the Eastern Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, (AAUP), secretary-treasurer Sylvia Kaplan announced Monday.

The $100 award is given to a student of good academic standing and nominations were made by the faculty.

Established in 1969 by the AAUP, the scholarship is "a continuing memorial to the life and work of the late Dr. King" and the recipient is to be "in thought and deed, a living example of the ideals and values expressed by Martin Luther King, Jr.," Kaplan said.

Buck will receive her award at a luncheon this week with Laurence Nichols, Louise Murray and Kaplan, all members of the selection committee.

Committee on target with honesty proposals

The House Executive Committee got on the ball Monday by voting unanimously to sponsor legislation that would prohibit state legislators from taking their pay a year at a time in advance.

What the committee is deciding to do is sponsor a piece of legislation that is already part of the Political Honesty Initiative referendum that an Illinois group, the Coalition for Political Honesty is trying to get enacted into law.

If the legislation that the committee decides to sponsor is written correctly and passed by the full General Assembly, as it should be, the state will have taken a giant step toward shoring up a major weakness in its governmental structure.

As it now stands, the first official act of many new legislators is to pick up their paycheck for $10,000.

There is no legal requirement that a legislator who fails to serve his or her full term to pay back the money.

The implications are that a candidate could run for office, be elected, pick up the paycheck and then decide to resign. The former legislator could go his or her merry way with $10,000 of the taxpayers money, leaving the poor taxpayer with nothing to show for it.

The new proposal would put all legislators on a monthly pay schedule, which is a much more fair and equitable situation.

Other proposals which were sent to a subcommittee by the Executive Committee deal with double-dipping by legislators, that is, holding another state job while a member of the legislature, and establishing a mechanism for determining whether a legislator has a personal interest in any pending legislation.

Unfortunately, the proposal would not prohibit any legislator from voting on an issue if he did have a personal stake in it.

All these proposals should be passed by the voters of the state who should already be supporting the Political Honesty Initiative which is attempting to combat the same ills.

Nixon wanted to push The Button during final days in office

(Editor's Note: The Buchwald column for Wednesday might possibly offend some readers. We believe it is fair comment, but as individual tastes vary, we believe that, as they say on TV, Parental (Editorial) Discretion is advised.)

WASHINGTON—My good friend William Safire is a very rare bird in Washington. He is the only columnist in town who still is willing to defend his old boss Richard Nixon.

Last week Safire raged at all the Nixon-haters for snickering at the story in the Woodward and Bernstein book when President Nixon asked Henry Kissinger to get down on his knees and pray with him. Then the President broke down in tears and cried like a baby.

Safire, who constantly points out the excesses of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson to show that Nixon was guilty of no more wrongdoing, accused the Georgetown set of ascribing the praying and crying of Nixon to mental instability.

As spokesman for the Georgetown set, I wish to assure Safire that not one person in the area snickered when they read the story.

The reason, was, according to Woodward and Bernstein, Mr. Nixon had not only been praying and crying—he had also been drinking. It is perfectly all right with the Georgetown set for a President to pray, even with Henry Kissinger. But it's another thing for the President of the United States to drown his sorrows in booze.

The reason is obvious. The President of the United States, as everyone is aware, has his finger on the Button. The fear of all of us was that a drunk President might decide in his stupor that if he had to go, he was going to take Georgetown with him.

We had a nightmare of Mr. Nixon staggering through the White House mumbling, "Where's the button? Gotta push the button. I'll show those (expletives) that they can't push the President of the United States around. Pat, where's the Button?"

"I hid it. Go to bed, Richard."

"You had no right to hide the button. It's my button and I can push it if I want to."

Art Buchwald

"Please, Richard, you've had too much to drink. I'll tell you where the button is in the morning."

"I want to know where it is now. As Commander-in-Chief, I order you to tell me where the button is. If you refuse, I'll have to assume you're one of THEM."

"Please, Richard. Tell me again about China."

"Don't want to talk about China. I want a drink and then I'm going to find the button."

"Richard, will you stop throwing all my clothes out of the drawers! It's not in any of them. I didn't hide the button in the medicine cabinet either. . . . No, it's not under the bed. Now why don't you go to sleep?"

"It's gotta be somewhere in this house. I'll bet you Al Haig knows where the button is. . . . Operator, get me Haig. . . . Al, you have any idea where Pat hid the button? . . . Yeh, that Button. . . . What do you mean why do I want to know? . . . Don't argue with me. . . . Where the hell is it? . . . You don't know? . . . Well, is there another button around? . . . There's only one? . . . Dammit, there should be a spare one. . . . Suppose it got lost or something."

"Al, the first thing I want you to do tomorrow morning is put a button in every room in the White House. . . . When I want to push it, I don't want to have to go looking all over for it. . . . You wanna come up and have a drink with me? . . . Ah, you're no fun. I don't know why I keep you around."

"Operator, get me Kissinger. Henry, you got any idea where Pat hid The Button? . . . You don't, huh? . . . Well, I think you're lying. As a matter of fact, I know you're lying. . . . I want to tell you something, Henry. I don't like you. I never liked you. I don't like any Krauts and when I find that button and push it, you're going to be the first to go. . . . I don't care if you prayed with me or not, you got no guts. If you did you'd help me find the button. . . ."

It probably didn't happen this way, but I have to tell you, Safire, that's what we in Georgetown thought was going on in those last days and that is why we aren't snickering now. We were scared stiff!

As President Ulysses S. Grant once said at a party in Georgetown, "An administration that prays together stays together—but one that drinks together sinks together."

Charges in column should be investigated

The Thursday edition of the Eastern News published a column essay by Mark Wisser bringing serious charges against some members of the Student Senate. Wisser stated that some members of the student senate allegedly had alcoholic beverages in the student union.

We, as students, call for an immediate investigation of the charges by an impartial party, not connected with the student government in any way and also an investigation concerning the theft of the Thursday editions of the Eastern News and the possible connection of the theft with the members of the student government.

If the allegations by Wisser are found to be true, each guilty member of the student senate should be removed from office.

Sessions to involve problems of elderly

Eastern's senior nutrition program, serving area senior citizens, will hold two training sessions Monday and Wednesday for volunteer students.

Both sessions will meet at 4 p.m. in the Applied Arts Education Building Room 110.

Christine Kane, training session director, said recently that the first session will deal with problems experienced by the elderly such as lack of transportation, health care and nutrition, inadequate income, suitable housing and widowhood.

The Wednesday session will familiarize students with "Peace Meal," the senior nutrition program, Kane said.

Kane is also coordinator of Coles County Telecare, providing locally and federally funded supportive services for

Going along with rapist effective method of protection

Since not many know how to protect themselves in a case of rape, Storaska suggested that first of all, "do whatever seems right to you according to your feelings on rape and protection."

Storaska did suggest that the victim not get violent, scream or struggle in any way until the "time is right." Any form of struggle will seem like a rejection to the rapist, Storaska said, "and the rapist hates the idea of rejection."

One of the most effective ways of protecting yourself in the rape situation is to seem as if you are going along with the rape.

"Melt into the rapist, talk with him and above all, touch him. This makes it seem you aren't trying to get away as soon as you can even when you are," Storaska said.

"It also makes it easier for you to gently reach between the man's legs, fondle his testicles and then smash one of them as hard as you possibly can."

Panthers take 2 from North Central 8-2, 7-6

By Dave Shanks
Eastern News Sports Editor

Backed by a strong pitching effort, the Panther baseball team notched 8-2 and 7-6 wins Tuesday over North Central College of Naperville at Monier Field.

The wins boost Eastern's record to 15-3 while the Cardinals dropped to 13-7.

Freshman Rick Furmanski (1-1) overcame delivery problems in the first inning after giving up two runs to settle down and shut out the Cardinals in the final six frames.

Panther coach J.W. Sanders said after the game that Furmanski realized his delivery motion had been slow and also that he would have to pressure the hitters.

Furmanski gave up six hits for the game, two in the first inning, while sending 10 men down via the strikeout route.

In the second game, Rob Dillon started on the mound for the Panthers but was plagued with control problems as he gave up five runs on five hits in two and one third innings.

Junior Terry Etnier came in in relief to take the win for Eastern giving up just one run on four hits while picking up three strikeouts.

Sanders called Etnier the day's most outstanding Panther performer.

"Terry is one of our most reliable people," Sanders said, adding that Etnier is the type of pitcher who could pitch three straight days with two days of rest.

The Panthers were also fleet of foot Tuesday stealing 14 bases in the two games.

Panther shortstop Fred Myers led the team on the base paths with six steals.

In the opener, Furmanski gave up a single between first and second to Dan Errico who then stole second.

Tom Monahan walked putting runners on first and second.

Furmanski struck out Van Dyke but first baseman Chris Strobbe slashed a basehit driving in Errico and Monahan to give North Central their only two runs of the game.

Eastern made its big comeback in the fourth when Myers led off with a walk followed by Mike Honel's single just over NCC shortstop Gary Christian's outstretched glove.

Catcher Rick Philippi then walked loading the bases for Pete Kasperski who belted a drive across third base and into left field scoring Myers and Honel.

Designated hitter Bob Schlemmer sacrifice bunted Philippi and Kasperski to second and third. Doug Craig walked loading the bases again.

Rick Doss also walked forcing in a run making the score 3-2. Duane Stralow of NCC was brought in to relieve.

Eastern picked up three more in the fifth giving them their eight runs on eight hits.

North Central picked up three runs from Dillon in the first inning of the second game while allowing Eastern one in the same inning.

The Cardinals added a pair in the third stretching the lead to 5-1 but once again the Panthers charged from behind, this time with four runs to tie things up.

With the bases loaded, Schlemmer's fly scored Honel.

Doss slammed a hit to center which got past centerfielder Errico and went all the way to the fence allowing Doss to round the bases picking up three RBI's.

Eastern scored two in the fifth while giving North Central one in the sixth to close out the scoring.

City council honors Panther cagers

A resolution "expressing appreciation and honor for the Eastern basketball team" was unanimously passed by the Charleston City Council at its meeting Tuesday.

The resolution praised the Panthers for being "the finest basketball team in the state of Illinois" and commended the team for its third place finish in Division II.

The resolution further stated that the city wants to express its pride in the team and Eastern with special honors to head coach Don Eddy, assistant coach Bud Scott and Athletic Director Mike Mullally.

"The City of Charleston expresses pride and esteem in being the home of Eastern and sharing the honors bestowed upon the Panthers.

Mayor Bob Hickman introduced the resolution.

Myers' weekend fielding, bat earn Panther of Week honors

Senior shortstop Fred Myers has been named Panther of the Week for his outstanding performance against Illinois State University (ISU) Friday and Saturday.

Myers was instrumental in helping the Eastern baseball team sweep a four-game series from the Redbirds by going 8 for 15 at the plate and adding some fine defensive work in the field.

"He got some timely base hits and caused things to happen at the bat and in the field," head coach J.W. Sanders said.

It was Myers line drive single that drove in teammate Rick Doss with the winning run in the bottom of the 13th inning in the opening contest Friday.

Myers kept up his hitting assault in the second contest as he went 4 for 4 in the Panthers 7-0 romp over the Redbirds.

After starting out the Saturday doubleheader with a base hit, Myers had hit safely in six straight at bats.

This is the second year that Myers has played for the baseball Panthers. Previously he played on the basketball team.

After completing his final year of eligibility on the cage squad, Myers then went on to the baseball diamond.

"The biggest difference from his performance of last year," Sanders said, "is that he did not play basketball this year. Last year he was one and a half to two months behind and did not make the Southern trip. That has made all the difference."

Myers agreed with his coach saying, "I'm not really doing anything different from last year. I guess the biggest thing is that I got started earlier.

"Last year I was palying two sports and I didn't get started till March and the rest of the team started in January.

"The extra two months has helped my timing and confidence. It's a lot easier when you can concentrate on one sport," Myers said.

The senior shortstop is currently hitting .375, which is second on the squad behind Mike Honel's .379, and ranks third in RBI's with nine.

"Hitting is the weakest part of my game. I'm always working on my hitting," he said.

"I concentrate on getting a hit but I would rather see the team win," Myers said. "I would rather go 0 for 4 and see the team win rather than 4 for 4 and lose."

Four of Myers' teammates were also considered for the honor as Honel and Doss came up with some timely hits and pitchers Rich Dobrovich and Tom Ozy threw excellent games in the opening doubleheader against the Redbirds Friday.

Trackmen Andy Womack and Ed Hatch were also consideres. Womack established a new record in the javelin and Hatch set a new mark in the 440-yard run.

Fred Myers adds another stolen base to his ledger as he beats the throw from the plate Saturday against Illinois State. Myers picked up eight hits in the two doubleheaders with the Redbirds Friday and Saturday.
